

About me...

Having started taking photos in 2006, it took a few years before my love for photography really sparked. It was a friend that encourage me, just three years ago. Since then I'm spending more time doing what I love; taking spontaneous photographs and developing my own style. A style I like to describe as genuine, intimate and slightly melancholic.

In the future I do want to carry on with photography and use it as a tool to reveal my person and to connect better with my intuition. I will increase my technical skills and possibly pursue a degree in photography.

For now I'm happy making photographs on the side while working at the theatre.

About my photos...

I have a affinity to black & white, portrait and street photography, so my photography is about people and emotions. This photographic series titled "thought" reflects on the different actions and interactions of our mental process.

I hope you enjoy it!

Ivy Sankes.